World peace ahead? Hope is mounting it's now possible

The leading peace advocates of our time share their work reducing conflict worldwide

A world without war: this is the vision that Douglas Roche has pursued for decades. A long-time advocate for peace and disarmament, Roche shows how new ideas such as the responsibility to protect innocent civilians from genocide or armed attack by their own government, and new institutions like the International Criminal Court are moving the world along the path to the end of war.

To tell this story of hope, Roche profiles some leading peacemakers of our time, and also interviews keen observers of world politics. They include former prime ministers and foreign ministers, senior UN officials, religious figures, women's organization leaders, jurists, journalists, authors and activists. Roche documents the successes in reducing conflict in the world, and in creating structures and institutions which are making war less likely and the world a more peaceful place.

Advance Praise

"A passionate, important read. Doug Roche is a knowledgeable, long-standing expert in the fight for peace and to save the planet from weapons of mass destruction."

— MICHAEL DOUGLAS,
